

Rob Harrison is featured in Chicken Wings Comics.

Chicken Wings is by far the best of all the aviation-based strips. Mike Strasser, the creative genius behind the strip is a professional pilot, and a very accomplished one at that, and he is also a licensed mechanic. Chicken Wings is the ONLY strip that accurately and understandably captures the essence of the physical, mental, and emotional ethos of flying. For the newest student to the most grizzled ATP, there is something to be learned from Hans, Chuck, and Julio. The ignorant and assuming boss, the cocky and arrogant but highly skilled "stick", the long-suffering and unappreciated mechanic, here they are in a format that reaches the most sophisticated aviator and most naive non pilot equally. I NEVER bother to read the comics, except, for Chicken Wings.

Robin T. Harrison, P.E., Professional stunt pilot, Commercial pilot, aviation engineer, lawyer, and mechanic.

You can read Chicken Wings in Pacific Flyer.
